PART II

NARRATIVE SUMMARY

During the month ground operations were occasionally restricted and aerial operations were periodically curtailed due to strong winds, heavy rains, and low cloud cover. The effects of these adverse weather conditions were increased by the Battalion's position in the relatively high ground of the Que Son Mountains. Overland troop movement became even more difficult and resupply and aerial support were sometimes impossible.

Throughout most of the month the Battalion was employing three (3) companies of 2/5 and two (2) companies from 3/5, while participating in Operation Imperial Lake. Company G remained OPCON to 5th Marines and continued to operate as the Combined Unit Pacification Program (CUPP) company. Companies I, K, and M became OPCON to 2nd Battalion, 5th Marines, at various times throughout this period.

The rapid reaction force (Sparrowhawk) was employed successfully on numerous occasions throughout the month. The assignment as Sparrowhawk was rotated frequently among the Battalion's organic and attached companies. The most successful employment of the rapid reaction force occurred on 4 November when Marine Air and Company F collaborated in killing twenty-one (21) VC/NVA and in capturing two (2) AK-47 rifles and three (3) 9mm pistols. The rapid reaction force was employed a total of eight (8) times during this period.

On 6 November a Battalion CP was established on Hill 381 (AT 994391) to control and support friendly forces engaged in Operation Imperial Lake. Two seperate command groups were concurrently established: Command Group Alpha, located at Hill 381, commanded by the Battalion Commanding Officer, controlled the four (4) Companies operating in the vicinity of Hill 381; and Command Group Brave, located at Baldy Combat Base, commanded by the Battalion Executive Officer, controlled one (1) Company, a provisional Security platoon, support activities and the employment of the Sparrowhawk platoon.

With the exception of a short rehab period at Baldy Combat Base for each of the companies, the Battalion spent the month conducting Category III operations in the Que Son Mountains. During these operations considerable emphasis was placed on locating enemy storage areas and capturing enemy caches. Cave/tunnel complexes and base camp areas were seeded with CS crystals and destroyed with C-4 as a matter of policy in order to deny their further use to the enemy.

The most significant returns from these search operations were achieved by Company Hotel in the period from 25 to 30 November. During this period Company Hotel uncovered three (3) enemy cave/bunker complexes in which were discovered several weapons and pieces of communication equipment, including: one (1) crew-served weapon; eleven (11) individual weapons; two (2) AN/PRC 10 radios; two (2) field telephones; one (1) jamming set/frequency tuner; one (1) hand crank generator; one (1) receiving unit; and one (1) transmitter.

DECLASSIFIED

Company Echo and Company Fox also operated effectively during this period although their search efforts appear to have been concentrated in less lucrative areas. Aside from the insertion of Company Fox (-) on 4 November, neither company was engaged in any significant action during this period.

Companies India, Kilo and Mike, 3rd Battalion, 5th Marines were employed with varied missions. Each one was returned to Ross Combat Base for rehab and then subsequently reinserted into the Que Son Mountains and the operation. All three (3) Companies performed. Over the month Company Mike killed seven (7) VC/NVA, and captured five (5) individual weapons. Company Kilo also operated effectively, capturing seven (7) individual weapons on one occassion and three-thousand (3,000) pounds of corn on another. Company India made several small enemy contacts and captured miscellaneous equipment.

During the month a provisional platoon from H&S Company was employed initially at LZ Ranch House (AT 002429) and after 25 November on Hill 510 (AT 945405) to provide security for recon platoon patrol bases located at these positions. A radio relay station and fire support base were also established at FSB Rainbow (AT 983434) to support units operating in the northernmost area of the Que Son Mountains as well as provide security for the Recon platoon patrol base located there.

B. Intelligence

(1) General

(a) Second Battalion, 5th Marines personnel, taking part in operations in the Que Son mountains encountered light to moderate enemy activity. Enemy strategy had not changed. The position of 2nd Battalion, 5th Marine units in the Que Son Mountains put them astride enemy logistics and communication routes, and among the main areas of enemy base camps in the Southern part of Quang Nan Province. Contacts were predominantly friendly-initiated, generally with small groups of 3-6 enemy. Contacts were with both VC and NVA. Sucess was experienced by initiating surprise attacks on areas known to be populated with VC/NVA and/or enemy sympathizers. Numerous base camps, caves and harbor sites were discovered yielding valuble documents, weapons, ammunition and a variety of equipment.

(2) Weather

(a) Comparing this month to last, rainfall decreased slightly. The average daytime temprature for the month was 85 degrees; The average low of 70 degrees was experienced during the early morning hours. There were 9.80 inches of precipitation during the month.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Movement was hampered by the rain, low clouds and fog in the Que Son Mountains.

(3) Terrain

(a) The terrain around Baldy Combat Base consists primarly of rice paddies interspersed with low treelines and sporadic pieces of high ground. The Que Son Mountains presents a drastic contrast. It is composed of steep terrain with single, double and triple canopy vegetation. The height of slope of the ridgelines combined with the vegetation hinders movement and observation.

ANNEX B - Company G Combined Unit Pacification Program (CUPP) Progress report for [redacted] period 1-30 November 1970 [redacted]

CONFIDENTIAL

1. GENERAL

a. This is the third CUPP progress report for Golf Company, 2d Battalion, 5th Marines. (OPCON Fifth Marines)

b. The tempo of contacts remained relatively constant as compared to October. Operation Hoang Dieu continued through November with Golf CUPP actively participating in saturation patrolling and increased pacification efforts in accordance with the operation order. In executing Operation Hoang Dieu, it was found that the constricted A/O had a direct effect on the CUPP's ability to close with and destroy the enemy. When coordinated, forays outside these A/Os proved very successful and it is anticipated that friendly initiated contacts will increase with the expansion of A/O boundaries. Supporting arms have also been restricted during this period by various restrictive air plans and elimination of most H&I targets by "friendly ville" overlays and their attendant buffer zones. For the most part, only observed fire requests were accepted.

c. Marine CUPP small unit leaders continued to emphasize on-the-job training (OJT) to their Popular Force (PF) counterpart. A formal assignment of Marines to PF counterparts was accomplished in CUPP's 6-9. The importance of these assignments was emphasized by the District Chief and the Golf Company commander - stressing the need for better understanding, mutual trust, and exchange of ideas between the Marines and his PF counterpart.

1. Golf CUPP continued agressive patrolling throughout its nine areas of operations to ensure hamlet security. On 22 November, a tenth CUPP unit — CUPP Double 6 — was formed at the request of the Hoo Bai Subsector commander to increase security of the densely populated Huong Que area bordering LZ Baldy on the north. The 197 PF platoon was organized to support this new CUPP. Exploitation of patrolling contacts and subsequent employment of supporting arms and infantry dealt severe blows to enemy operations on several occasions.

a. On 4 November, CUPP 8's patrol engaged 15-20 enemy fleeing north toward unoccupied Phu Trang Village on an island in the Ba Ben River (Center of Mass)126508). The reaction force from Baldy — Fox 2/5 — and AO support were called in to exploit the contact, while CUPP 8 and units of RF Co. 162 formed a blocking force to the south. Gunships and infantry accounted for 2 VC KIA and several captured weapons, documents, and supplies. CUPP 8 and EOD later destroyed several bunkers found during this operation.

b. On 12 November, CUPP 8 again observed 10 VC fleeing to the same island (JOM 126508), and elements of 2nd Platoon, Golf CUPP, were helolifted to the north end of the island after a prep by artillery, AO, and fixed wing. This company-size sweep and block operation resulted in 3 VC KIA and one captured AK-47.

c. On 13 November, a CUPP 4 patrol contact in Phuoc Chi 1 (122 408) led to a sweep operation by 3rd Platoon, Golf CUPP, in cooperation with RF Co. 745. Aided by an AO on station, the unit received support from F-4 bomb and napalm strike (127405) and a subsequent sweep found 2 VC KIA and 4 M-26 boobytraps, which EOD destroyed. An AO also directed 3rd Platoon to an area east of Phuoc Chi 1 (131408) where additional contact totaled 2 VC KIA.

2. CUPP units provided blocking forces on 13 occasions during November for Hoo Bai and Que Son Regional Forces Groups and for 5th Marines operations. On 22 November, 1st Platoon, Golf CUPP, blocked for a sweep by Hotel Co., 2/5, resulting in 1 VC POW.

3. Increased implacement of seismic intrusion devices in 1st Platoon's area of operation produced intelligence which led a company-size patrol to a cave complex at Hill 100 (Center of Mass 087396), where enemy weapons, equipment, and documents were found and a nearby 1½-ton cache was uncovered on 18 November.

4. Extensive night ambushes and killer teams served to interdict enemy lines of communication and prevent the enemy from gaining access to secured hamlet areas. RF Cos. 162, 745, and 110 provided 81 mm illumination and HE support for several of these night operations.

b. Coordination

Closer liaison was attained through frequent visits between Go Noi, Hoa Dai, and Golf CUP personnel. Weekly liaison meetings were established at the regimental level and involved key 5th Marines Staff personnel, District Chiefs, advisors, and Golf CUP commanding officer.

c. Support for District RVNAF

A negative report is submitted under this subject.

d. Training

1. The planning and gathering of materials for a formal two-day school to be held at Baldy Combat Base was initiated. This school will involve PFs and their Marine counterparts. The students will remain aboard Baldy for two days and two nights and participate in advanced tactical training. Awards in the form of combat equipment will be given to PF students who demonstrate excellence in their performance at the school. It is anticipated that the school will commence in early December.

2. Two Golf CUP Marines completed Vietnamese Language School in Danang.

3. Eight Golf CUP Marines completed Combined Action Platoon School in Hoi An.

4. Ten Golf CUP Marines completed Land Mine Warfare School in Danang.

e. Military Civic Action

1. All CUP units continued to effect programs of flood relief and reconstruction following the evacuation operation of 30 October 70. Approximately 2,000 pounds of rice has been distributed among civilians to date, and plans are in effect to distribute further stores of captured rice. A general distribution of building materials for hamlet projects was carried out among the CUP units, but limited supplies of cement and lumber have prevented completion of several projects.
